RAILWAY BILL IS VETOED Craig & Harding's Stock. Craig & Harding's Stock.

Havemayer Road Objected to by the Commissioners.

LARGE INTERESTS INVOLVED

Proposed Street Car Line Was to Serve Overlook Inn-Anacostia Compuny's Franchise in the Way-Use of Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge Also Objected To.

The railroad company whose application for a franchise was turned down by the Commissioners yesterday, for reasons given in the Evening Times, is that in which the Havemeyer syndicate is understood to be directly interested.

Its proposed incorporators are James G. Berret, A. M. Bliss, Hamilton Disston, George S. Boutwell, Albert W. Fictcher, George S. Boutwell, Albert W. Fittcher, Chauncey Marshall, Jacob J. Leeds, Joseph Clark, Samuel Cross, Thomas J. Chule, E. C. Carpeater, T. E. Roessle, William H. Bapley, John G. Slater, Edward C. Potter, John T. Bevine, Afbert Carry, Arthur Mahoney, Wilkiam H. Hazzard, Appleton P. Clark, jr. A. E. Rondle, Charles L. Du Bois, H. P. Blair, W. N. Morrison, Frederick A. Lehmann, A. C. Horbacher, C. C. Laucaster, Heary Brock, Charles A. McEwen and J. P. Livingston, reputed to be a particularly strong combination, fluidancially.

The company sought incorporation under the name of the East Washington Reights Traction Railway Company to the purpose of constructing a road from the Maryland line into and through the Dis-trict to the intersection of New Jersey avenuc and C street northeast.

mue and C street northeast.

The line projected brigins at Bilss avenue, or Thirty-fourth street, at the Maryland line, thence by the way of either thoroughfare to the Eastern Branch at Pennsylvania avenue bridge, upon which it will cross the river and proceed to the terminus stated.

WOULD ENLARGE THE BRIDGE. The proposition was that upon getting permission to lay tracks for use on the bridge named, the company would obligate itself to abandon, enlarge or reconstruct that structure, or so much as might be necessary, upon receipt of notice from the Commissioners. The company also agreed to increase the facilities of the bridge, if necessary, by enlarging the piers so as to admit of more space for travel.

The main object of the company may be said to be the upbuilding of the heights and the ultimate advantage of the large property owned by the syndicate, including Overlook Inn.

When objection was first made to the when objection was first made to the use of the Pennsylvania avenue bridge for street railway purposes it was said by those said to be well informed that Mr. Have-neyer, the head of the syndicate, would not insist upon that proviso, and that in order to get the street car service, he would gladly build a new bridge at his own expense.

It was further declared that if any other ilway company would undertake to lid or extend a line, so as to accommodate the Outlook Inn interest, the syndicate would not press its bill—the principal de-sire being for means to transport passengers to and from what is designated as a first-class-resort.

There was a bid once made by Mr. Have-There was a bid once made by Mr. Have-meyer for a controlling interest in the Anacostia line. One offer was to buy the franchise outright, and several times last summer it was rumored that a deal was likely to be consummated. It transpired that the syndicate bid was not high enough.

ANACOSTIA ROAD INTERESTED. In their comments upon the bill the Commissioners refer specially to the fact that the Anacostia road aiready occupies a part of the territory, with the privilege a part of the territory, with the privilege of extension to the Bowen road, at or near one of the terminal points named in the bill for the East Washington Heights road. It is not known what the syndicate will do in case the bill fails. It has a valuable property with no public means of reaching it, save by a coach, that runs between Overlook Inn and a point on East Capitol street, at the intersection with Eighth street southeast.

The outcome may be that the Havemeyer people will yet bid enough to capture the Anacostia Company franchise, but it is noted in this connection that the sentiment of the House, as exhibited yesterday after-noon, was decidedly in favor of the East Washington Heights bill.

It seems to be pretty well assured that the Commissioners will again veto the project for the Mount Pleasant and Zoo Gravity Quick Transit Line of communication, an enterprise in which Messrs.
Thomas Somerville, Louis, D. Wine, James
H. Vermilya, H. B. Hibbs, and Ethelbert
Baier are interested.
The board has not signified its inten-ons in regard to the measure, but the op tions in regard to the measure, but the op-position has begun a determined resistance to its adoption, and as the Commissioners recommended adverse acrion when the matter was first before them it is not con-sidered as probable that they will change their opinion when they come to make up their second report.

Messrs. J. M. Clapp and H. D. Walbridge called on Commissioner Powell yesterday Craig & Harding's Stock.

the road. Col. Clapp stated that uside from all other objections the plan proposed is not feasible. He says it will not be pos-sible, with the grade proposed in the bill, for the cars to obtain sufficient momentum to cary them to the destination at either end of the route. WHAT OBJECTORS SAY.

The principal objections, however, were to the presence of what the gentlemen termed a roller-conster line through that section and into the park, and the influence statement on what he learned from the president of the association.

There is a letter on file from Prof. Langley of the Smithsonian Institution, which is understood to express his opposition to the road, but it will not be given out until the Commissioners are ready to prepare their report, which will be within a New days.
